

Apollo and Luna

It was early September when I got the emails from Beth. There were 2 Dalmatians in Southeastern New Mexico shelters needing homes.

Apollo – Sept. 2012 “Rescued”

Luna – Sept. 2012 “Rescued”

That was on a Wednesday. We drove 500 miles Thursday so that we could rendezvous early Friday morning with the very kind people that transported the dogs to Albuquerque. We brought the dogs back to Colorado that day, along with a 3rd dog that was going to a rescue/temporary home. With 3 dogs in the car, we didn't waste much time driving north – just a couple stops for fuel, water, and potty breaks. And so began our busy and full lives with Apollo and Luna.

Apollo was a rambunctious, unneutered male when he came to us, and Luna was recovering from raising her litter of puppies. In short time, they became well-behaved fast friends with each other and with our cat, Thunder. They love their walks, long car trips, and just hanging around.

Apollo at his new “forever home”

Luna at her new “forever home”

We'll always be grateful for Dalmatian Rescue's Beth White, and also for the kind and caring folks that helped that day in New Mexico. How fortunate for Apollo and Luna that they got a shot at a wonderful life in a loving home. And how lucky for us that we got 2 terrific dogs!