

Baxter

(aka Baxter1)

He went from Texas to Colorado to Kansas City, but Baxter is finally HOME! Our buddy, Baxter, made Omaha his permanent home over Memorial Day. It was a "blind" meeting for him and his sister, Bella. But it was a perfect match! The two acted like they had known each other their whole lives as soon as they met.

Bella has taught Baxter all of her naughty habits. The couch and the bed are his favorite places to snuggle up next to his mommy and his sister. His favorite spot is with his nose burrowed under my head!

Baxter wasn't sure about what toys were and how to play with them until he watched his big sister show him how it's done. I can't get the squeaky bone and the Aflac Duck away from him! He throws it in the air and plays catch with himself. It's the funniest thing to watch! Baxter also didn't make a peep for about a week. When he finally found his voice, he didn't hold back.

Baxter is such a snuggly, loving, playful little man. He's the perfect fir for Bella and me.

(BTW... Bella is a "transport failure" for Dalmatian Rescue of Colorado. I took her out of a nasty shelter in Missouri and was supposed to bring her to Colorado. But obviously, she never made it to Colorado!)
