

Eva

(aka Pippi)

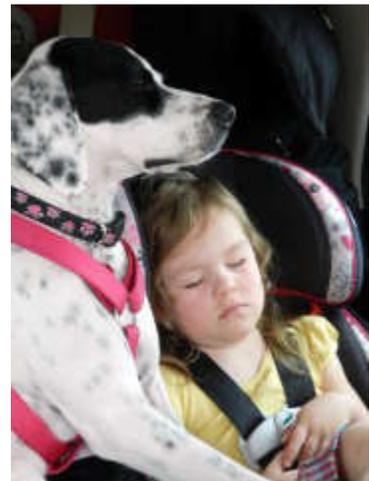

My husband and I adopted Eva in April, 2013 - about two months after our previous beloved dog, Cody, passed away suddenly. We were extremely devastated to lose Cody, but felt that we should gradually search for another dog that could help us as much as we could help them. We figured that if we found the right dog we would know it. I found Eva while searching for rescue dogs on the internet. She caught my eye since she looks very similar to our other dog, Lilly. After visiting her at her foster home we knew that she would be a great fit for our family. She has been in our home now for about three months, and she seems to be adjusting well. She is, of course, full of energy and loves to play in our back yard. She gets along well with our two cats and she adores Lilly (although Lilly is quite a bit older with a heart condition so she doesn't really play). She and Lilly snuggle at night on the couch, and Eva has developed her own place in our bed too... it's very cozy with two people and two dogs, but we wouldn't have it any other way! We feel very lucky to have found Eva. She is a very sweet girl with a big heart.
