

Lola

(aka Sindy)

All our animals have had a name associated with our favorite music (Joplin, Bowie...) so we decided to change her name to Lola (The Kinks, not Barry Manilow)©. We adopted her a couple of months ago and we instantly fell in love with her. She is by far the happiest and smartest animal we have ever had; she is ready to go, try new things or play at any moment. So far, she's hiked many trails, mountain biked in Flagstaff, bounded through snow drifts in the mountains of Wyoming and swam in the Platte in Casper. In a couple of weeks, we will take her camping in Moab.

She was well behaved when we got her thanks to her foster mom, Janet. There's a few issues (occasionally peeing on the floor, jumping up on people, tackling the cat and biting my feet) but nothing we can't work through. She has endless energy, so we get a lot more exercise these days. We have a creek that flows through our property and when she first arrived she wouldn't even put a toe in the water. After one visit with a friend's dog who loves the water and jumped right in, Lola can't get enough. When we are home she spends most of her time splashing around in the creek... needless to say I may never have clean floors again. A big thanks to Dalmatian Rescue for bringing her to Colorado and to Janet Sellers for training her so well. We love her a bunch and she seems to love us too.

– Jennifer & Derrick E.
Buena Vista, CO

Mountain hiking with my new Mom. We go on lots of fun adventures!!

I'm Queen of the Mountains!