

Daisy

(aka Daisy13)

Daisy is the best dog we've ever had. She clearly had some training prior to our adoption, and she follows commands well. She is incredibly sweet and loving, and has some poses and antics that make us laugh. My favorite thing about her is how quickly she adapts to different situations in the household. She can roar up and down the steps to chase a toy, but if we sit down to dinner or watch TV, she'll quickly stretch out and chew on a bone or snooze. She has two issues that can be disruptive. Although she is playful and affectionate with other dogs who visit the household, she has terrible leash aggression toward strange dogs on a leash in the park. The best way to handle it so far is to make her sit and stay with her back to the dogs while keeping her attention on us and giving her a treat. The other problem is that she is a digger, which has not done much for my backyard. I've sprayed some of my plants with homemade formulas of dish soap, hot sauce, etc., and created a digging pit with a little sand where I bury treats sometimes. So far this looks promising. She is a very good addition to our household and great company when one of us in on our own.
